WHERE THE WORLD GOES FOR SIGNS

I have been in the sign business for 18 years and was waiting a very long time to find a solar powered sign product I could sell with the confidence it would perform as promised. Solar Power & Light (SP&L) proved to me they can deliver on the high quality and performance I expected while still keeping the price competitive. My major concern with solar signs was that I had to sacrifice on brightness but SP&L's innovative back-lighting design and efficient solar power solution lights up my 6'x8' double-sided insert sign just as brightly and evenly as a conventional grid-tied sign.

SP&L's Solar Powered Signs have created new opportunities for my customers to advertise in remote locations which would otherwise have been impossible due to the high costs of running electric. Even for situations where an electrical connection is close I would still consider SP&L's solar signs because of their significantly lower operational and maintenance costs. I am pleased to say that my search for a reliable supplier of solar signs is finally over and I can now focus on expanding my business with their new game changing technologies.

Sincerely,

David B. Erby
