NMSDC WELCOMES A SOLAR ENERGY COMPANY

DAYTON, OH—Solar Power and Light, LLC (SP&L) is proud to announce that The National Minority Supplier Development Council (NMSDC) has certified SP&L as a Minority Business Enterprise. Joining more than 16,000 minority owned businesses: SP&L is honored to be a part of the NMSDC mission to progress business opportunities for minority owned business enterprises, by connecting them with corporate members.

Chartered in 1972 The National Minority Supplier Development Council has become one of the country's prominent corporate membership organizations. With the national office stationed in New York and 33 regional councils across the nation; NMSDC has excelled at building partnerships between corporate members and minority businesses within the NMSDC organization. "SP&L is currently engaged with numerous multi-national companies, so we are delighted that our MBE certification can immediately add value to their corporate diversity and sustainability initiatives", says SP&L Founder and CEO, Neil Chaudhry.

What launched in 2010, as another spin off company of buyCASTINGS.com, Inc., has grown and developed into a very thriving solar business. As an Integrated Energy Company, SP&L handles every piece of deploying solar, from finance, development, and installation to maintenance and operation of a solar powered energy system; SP&L has every aspect covered for you: we help corporations, k-12 schools/universities, cities/municipalities, and non-profit organizations meet their energy and sustainability goals - "Putting Power in Your Hands".

"With over 2MW of solar power plants owned and operated across the state of Ohio, a national pipeline of continuing development and the new MBE certification in hand, SP&L will continue to grow as a company", says SP&L's COO, Brent Boyd. With new opportunities available and continual business expansions, SP&L looks forward to 2014 and beyond.
